If you're still hoping to book something special for Valentine's Day, let there be no more dilly dallying. From a stay in a Scandinavian-style Scottish cabin with canoes to mud bathing in the New Forest, the following romantically minded holidays in Britain still have availability on or around February 14. For something further afield, see our guide to romantic Valentine's Day holidays around the world.

Centred around a consultation with accredited private jeweller, N.J. Geddes, during which you will create a bespoke piece of fine jewellery together, there are several different tiers of experiences available for two-night stays.

The Royal Suite at Grantley Hall, Yorkshire

For £5,000 you'll stay in a junior suite, enjoy dinner for two at Shaun Rankin's fine dining restaurant and come away with a bespoke piece of jewellery worth £4,000.

The packages graduate up to one for £30,000, which includes a bespoke piece of jewellery worth £25,000, a stay in the Royal or Presidential Suites, fine dining for two on both nights and spa treatments at the Three Grace Spa, which has an 18-metre indoor swimming pool, indoor-to-outdoor hydrotherapy pool, sauna, steam and snow rooms.
